Thank you for your interest in teaching a class at The Community House!

The Community House offers educational and enrichment programs for adults, children and families. Every effort is made to create an environment that enhances the learning experience. We develop and administer programs, events, classes and camps throughout the year.

We welcome and encourage suggestions from the community regarding future classes and programs. If you have a new course idea, please contact the Program Department to explore the possibility of offering the class.

The Community House plans four terms and publishes four course catalogs:

Fall: September - December

Winter: January – March

Spring: April – June

Summer: June - August.

The fees for classes vary and every effort is made to keep fees affordable. Materials fees are in addition to registration fees, and are handled directly between instructor and student.

The Community House has a variety of methods to market classes. The biggest emphasis is our catalog. The catalog is mailed to approximately 50,000 homes each term and is also available for viewing online. In addition, our Director of Communications will use various media to market classes as appropriate.

Class participants have a variety of options available to register for our classes:
by phone, by mail, by fax, in-person, and on-line.

You will be paid for your class after it is completed. Payment is usually based on a split of registration fees, and is determined on an individual basis.

Please feel free to contact the Program Department at The Community House if you have further questions.
